Comments - Repository 1 (UKDS)

- Classified projects: 10343; unclassified: 30.
- Most common primary classes: 86 - Human health activities (2427), 78 - Employment activities (2224), 85 - Education
- Distinct primary classes identified: 70.

All UKDS files sit behind a login wall, so no primary-data file content could be read; every UKDS project is typed OTHER_PROJECT from the single (container) file recorded, and classified from metadata only. Classes therefore reflect the study topics described in the catalogue rather than file content.

General note: ISIC classifies economic activities, whereas qualitative studies describe research subjects. The mapping assigns the closest activity (e.g. labour research -> 78 Employment activities), which is an approximation inherent to applying an industrial taxonomy to research metadata.

Comments - Repository 2 (AUSSDA)

- Classified projects: 1157; unclassified: 437.
- Most common primary classes: 84 - Public administration and defence; compulsory social security (460), 78 - Employment
- Distinct primary classes identified: 40.

AUSSDA projects with primary-data files (PDF/RTF/DOCX) are typed QD_PROJECT and additionally classified from file content; projects with only tabular/statistical files are OTHER_PROJECT, and those with no files NOT_A_PROJECT. Many records carry only short German-language topic labels, which the English keyword classifier cannot match - the main source of unclassified projects here.

General note: ISIC classifies economic activities, whereas qualitative studies describe research subjects. The mapping assigns the closest activity (e.g. labour research -> 78 Employment activities), which is an approximation inherent to applying an industrial taxonomy to research metadata.
